

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH ALABAMA
TITLE IX OFFICE

Title IX Pregnancy & Parenting

Title IX protects pregnant and parenting students from discrimination. This includes pregnancy, childbirth, false pregnancy, termination of pregnancy, miscarriage, or recovery from any of these conditions. It is illegal to exclude a pregnant student from any part of an educational program.

Student Rights under Title IX?

- Students have the right to stay enrolled at their school.
- Students have the right to remain in their same classes and extracurricular activities.
- Students have the right to reasonable modifications to support their learning.
- Students have the right to excused absences for pregnancy-related needs, including childbirth, without penalty.
- Students have the right to lactation spaces and breaks during class to pump milk.
- Students have the right to learn free from harassment.
- Students have the right to learn free from sex discrimination based on their parental status.
- Students have the right to be informed about their rights.

The University of South Alabama

Athletics Annex 6001 USA South Drive, Suite 50 Mobile, AL 36688

Phone: (251) 460-7280 | Email: titleix@southalabama.edu